[D-8] Genesis 1:1

Note Hebrew is read from right to left.   Genesis 1:1

7 [296]	6 [407]	5 [395]	4 [401]	3 [86]	2 [203]	1 [913]
הָאָרֶץ׃	וְאֵת	הַשָּׁמַיִם	אֵת	אֱלֹהִים	בָּרָא	בְּרֵאשִׁית
earth	and the	the heavens	the	God	created	in beginning
h-aretz	wa-eth	h-shamayeem	eth	eloheem	bara	b-resheeth

(7+5+3->777 [3x7x37]) : (6+5+3->888 [3x8x37]) : (1+3->999 [3x9x37] : (5+4+2->999)
{Same sequences occur in Isaiah 66:7-8}[See LivingGreekNt.org and Use of Numbers in Scripture.]

b-resheth – literally "in beginning NOT "in the beginning"– with God there is no beginning!

The "eem" on the end of God and heavens means plural {three or more}. The word for God is plural, but takes singular modifiers! The word "bara" for create is used only of God – man cannot create anything!

Note: in the middle is את {Aleph and Tav} which consists of the first letter and the last letters of the Hebrew alphabet. {Alpha and Omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. Rev. 1:8]

The following notes are in Equidistant Letter Sequences {Signature of God #2} [Hebrew Code] at www.TheWordNotes.com and are from Grant Jeffrey's book Signature of God.

In Genesis 1:1, beginning with the first occurrence of the Hebrew letter tav {ת}, counting 49 letters the second letter of 'Torah' appears, counting 49 more letters the third letter appears, counting 49 more letters the fourth letter appears-- Torah {תורה} is spelled out using every 50th letter of the text. [The Torah is the first 5 books of the old testament, which is also referred to as the Pentateuch.]

The Hebrew word for Israel {ישראל} is spelled out in the opening passage of Genesis by skipping every seven letters and once again by skipping every fifty letters with a short passage of only five verses [Genesis 1:30-2:3]   Grant Jeffery notes that these verses where Israel is encoded are known as the Kiddush and are recited by Jews around the world every Sabbath.

Beginning with Exodus 1:1, Torah is spelled out the same way; every 50th letter beginning with the first appearance of the Hebrew letter tav {ת}.

Leviticus does not have 'Torah' encoded, but has Jehovah {God's name} {יהוה} spelled out beginning with the first appearance of the Hebrew letter yod {י} and counting forward every 8th letter {Note: the number 8 [2³] is Jesus' number -- see Use of Numbers In Scripture at www.TheWordNotes.com

   Numbers and Deuteronomy both have 'Torah' encoded in the initial verses of the books, but in Numbers 'Torah' is spelled out in reverse order using 50 letter intervals. In Deuteronomy, 'Torah' is also spelled out in reverse order at 49 letter intervals beginning in the 5th verse. See Examples of ELS [Bible Codes] Matrix.

Arthur M. "Prof" Smith was once asked by a colleague whether he was ever bothered by people getting 'knit-picky' with the scriptures - His response: "No, because when people get seriously 'knit-picky' with the scriptures, they'll come out believers every time!"
